In Daghestan, a young Lesghian chief, being severely wounded during one of the frequent razzias of the Russians, took refuge in a ruined sakli,* in order to apply bandages to his wounds. While thus employed, he was discovered by a party of twelve dismounted dragoons, who immemediately gave chase on his taking flight. Being fleet of foot, for a short while, he outran them, during which time such of them as had their carbines loaded fired at him ineffectually. Having crossed one of the flexible bridges, common in that country, and which was over a rapid torrent at the foot of a mountain, the fugitive, finding himself unable to proceed much further, and having time to put his arms in order, stood at bay under a projecting rock. With yells of delight and uplifted sabres, the Russians approached the bridge. The foremost nearing him cried, "Yield, dog !" Not whilst I have twelve lives at my girdle," cried the undaunted mountaincer. The Russians in the rear laughed loudly at the boast, but he in advance fell dead, pierced through and through by a bullet, nearly at the feet of the Lesghian. The second soldier stumbled over his dead comrade, and as he rose received a shot which caused him which had been twice discharged, still pointed, rushed on; but to the surprise of the Russians, a third shot was fired at him : untouched, however, he was about to cut down the Lesghian, when a fourth discharge scattered his brains on the rocky parapet, and his lifeless body tumbled into the torrent beneath. Three of the Russians had now fallen. "What devil of a pistol is this, that speaks so often?" cried the survivors to each other. The Lesghian still stood firm, merely folding his pilisse of sheep's-skin round his left arm, ready to receive a blow, a preeaution not unheeded, since now two Russians, abreast, were on the point of assailing him. Certain of their prey, these advanced more cautiously than their predecessors. This time two deliberate shots brought them right and left; each fell pierced near the heart. The remaining soldiers were amazed. The Lesghian, fainted with loss of blood, and feeling his strength fast ebbing, now drew forth another pistol, at a moment unobserved by the enemy, and rapidly fired three shots at the group of Russians, now fifty yards distant at the other end of the bridge .-Owing to his sight now being dim, only one shot took effect, wounding one of the dra-goons in the shoulder. "Let us fly," they cried: "it is the Evil Spirit of the mountain he would kill our whole army !" Accordingly they precipitately fled, just as the Lesghian sank down exhausted at the foot of the rock. At a distance they ventured to look back. "It hath vanished in the mist," cried the superstitious Muscovites. The Lesghian chief was secured by some of his own people, and ere long recovered from his hurt, as did the wounded Russian. At his bridal feast, some four months after, the pistols, which were a pair of Colt's revolvers, and were a gift from an American traveller, Capt. Kthe youthful hero of the Caucasus, were country, and the wants of community, than by handed round amid the general benedictions of the party. Our Commissions on Sales, Exchanges, &c.,

The story of the "devil's pistol" was long told among the simple Russian soldiery, when conversing on their weary march, as the winding column ascended interminable mountain, or when the grateful Samovar (kettle) gave promise of tea at the close of their days journey. Now. the partial introduction of the arm among the officers has in some degree dissipated the telling effect of the story, but many still devoutly believe that the young Lesghian chief was no other than the Prince of Darkness himself out on a sporting expedition for the express purpose of bagging Russian sordiers.

"The "sakli" is the habitation of the eastern Caucasus. It is constructed of unhawn stones, co-mented with clay instead of mortar. † A tuft of horsehair is commonly inserted by the Circasians in the heels of their prisoners, in order to create such a degree of lameness as to prevent their escape.

† The simplicity of many of the Russian soldiers is almost touching in its childishness. It is against the Czar that we are making war, not provided the control of against these unfortunate beings.

Abscesses and Plcurisy.

Dear Sir:—For the last eight years I have been in a very low state of health, caused from a violent attack of Plcurisy in the year 1842, which settled on my lungs—formed two abscesses on my chest, which have been running ever since, and which reduced me very low in flesh, and completely prostrated me. I was troubled a great deal with swelling of the chest and limbs, during which time I have had occasional pains in all my joints, night sweats, fevers, and dizziness in the oints, night sweats, fevers, and dizziness in the head; in fact a complete prostration of all my nervous system. DEAR DOCTOR:—With feelings of the liveli-est gratitude I take up my pen to let you know the great change Dr. Chalmer's Sanative Tine-ture has effected in my case. I have been af-flicted with a complication of diseases; Palpi-tation of the Heart, Costiveness, nervous debili-ty, and a disease of the windpipe, which my physicians pronounced Bronchitis. I have from physicians pronounced Bronchitis. I have from time to time been attended by some of the most skilful physicians that our city can boast of but none of them appeared to understand my diseases, or were able to cure me, after they had exhausted their skill on me, I was induced at the solicitation of numerous of my friends and acquaintances to try several medicines set forth in the public prints, which did me no more good than my physicians. About this time I accidentally can arrow any one of vourteinter the contract of the contract than my physicians. About this time I accidentally came across one of your circulars and read it over; your argument in it appeared logical and reasonable, and I determined I would try a couple of bottles; judge my surprise and joy when after finishing the second bottle, to find all the prominent points of my disease leaving me, and vanishing before the magical effect of your Sanative Tincture, like the mist and vapour are dispelled by the rising sun. In conclusion, dear sir, allow me to recommend your medicine to all afflicted and suffering from disease for I am afflicted and suffering from disease for I am afflicted and suffering from disease, for I am sure if they will but make a trial of it they will

LIVER COMPLAINT.

SIX YEARS experience has proved that for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumptions, Asthmas, Filing of Blood, Pain and Oppression of Breast, thore is nothing equal to Hance's Compound Strup of Hoamhound.

This medicine has now been in use for six years, during which time there has been a constant demand for it, and its popularity instead of deell-ning, has been always on the increase.

During this time many new medicines have sprung up for the cure of the above complaints, some of which only lasted a few months, and others not as long; but Hance's Syrup has readily gone on gaining favor with all classes of society until it has now become identified by many families as a regular family medicine.

To those who have never used the Compound

milies as a regular family medicine.

To those who have never used the Compound Syrup of Hoarhound, this notice is particularly directed, as to those who have once experienced its peculiarly happy effects, any praise of its merits
